

Drooping or Coast Sheoak Allocasuarina verticillata

Flowers: March to December - H 4-11m x W 3-6+m.

Small to medium sized spreading tree with beautiful drooping foliage. Tolerates dry sandy soils and grows well in coastal areas, being salt spray tolerant. Individual male & female plants, with the male tree developing yellow-brown flower spikes giving it an attractive hue. The female tree forms barrel shaped woody cones. An excellent shade tree once established & highly drought resistant. Shed foliage forms a smothering soft carpet.
