

Black-anther Flax-lily Dianella revoluta var. revoluta

Flowers: September to December. H 30-50cm x W 30-50cm.

Generally a trouble-free clumping lilly, spreads by rhizomes, but easy to contain. Reasonably fast growing & very drought tolerant once established. Grows in full sun to shade & suitable for most well drained soils. Makes a lovely understorey plant. Flowers are an attractive star shape; blue with black and yellow centres, appearing in spring, summer & autumn. Followed by fleshy shiny purple berries. Removing the dried-out flower stems improves the appearance. Very hardy & long lived. Looks good planted in groups. Suitable for rockeries. Long lived.
